

COOKIES POLICY

Our Website uses "cookies" and the other technologies. These cookies help the Controller to better understand behavior of users, find out which parts of the Website people visited. We treat data collected through cookies and the other technologies as well as an Internet Protocol (IP) as personal details.

What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that a website you visit stores on your device. Cookies can contain text, numbers, dates, etc.

Cookies can be either short term (session cookie) or long term (persistent cookie). Short-term cookies are deleted from your device when you close your browser. Long-term cookies remain stored on your device until you delete them or they expire.

The user can always block the use of cookies or by changing the browser settings to require permission each time cookies are stored. Please bear in mind that such changes may partially or completely restrict the use of the website. Browser manufacturers provide help pages for their products with information about cookie management.

Use of cookies

We use long term cookies to track users' visits to our Website to improve their user experience, manage language settings, etc. We also use short-term cookies that last only during the current visit to the website or until you close your browser.

We do not store any personally identifiable information about users within our cookies, nor do we share information with third parties except as otherwise provided in this Cookies Policy.

Cookies settings

As part of the provision of our website, we use so-called session cookies, which we store on your device when you visit our website – regardless of your choice as part of the tracking banner – and which are always automatically deleted when you close your internet browser (i.e. exit the program). This allows us to provide you with various features on our website using the information in these cookies.

We use the following session cookies for certain functions that do not contain personal data, for the following purposes:

- o temporary storage of certain user input (e.g. contact form);
- o improving user-friendliness and measuring statistical range.

Session cookies are automatically deleted when the internet browser is closed, or at the latest at the end of the lifetime of the respective cookie.

For technical purposes, your internet browser automatically sends information to our server all the time when you view our Website (i.e. the collected data). Cookies allow our website to recognize your device and remember certain information about you and your activities while connected to our website. We use cookies in order to optimally create and continuously improve our services, to adapt them to your interests and needs and to improve their structure and content.

The log files do not contain any personal data. We only analyze the collected data when necessary on an event-by-event basis, especially when we want to correct errors in the operation of our Website or clarify security incidents. We store this data indefinitely.

Persistent cookies – Persistent cookies are cookies that remain stored on your device even after you have closed your internet browser. We use the information in these cookies to provide you with convenience-enhancing features on our website (e.g., to store certain user preferences or to search and adjust language), but also to collect information about your usage behavior on our website and to use this information to improve our website (e.g., to clear errors) and to personalize advertisements for you.

Persistent cookies with personal data to collect your user behavior are only processed with your consent, which you can give us the first time you visit our website via the tracking banner displayed there. You can withdraw your consent to the processing of your user behavior at any time by deleting any cookies that have been set on your internet browser. In this case, it may more or less be necessary to make new decisions regarding the use of cookies for the above purpose via the tracking banner. At the same time, you can withdraw your consent to individual analytical/marketing tools, as you will read below.

Data from persistent cookies is stored until the end of the respective cookie's validity period or until it is deleted by you.

Functional cookies – these cookies allow us to remember your basic choices and improve the user experience.

Analytical cookies – these cookies are used to collect data about traffic to our website, information about searches made on our site and also to find out how you move around our site so that we can make it as easy as possible for you to use. As we have implemented measures for these cookies to prevent their misuse (anonymization on the part of our suppliers) and at the same time measures are implemented so that you can easily control and limit the use of these cookies, we do not ask your consent to use them. We use third party solutions for these cookies (Google Analytics).

To disable cookies for your web browser, go to Web Browser Settings, where you can then change your settings and block cookies. Some cookies are necessary to help our Website work properly and can't be switched off, and some are optional but support the Website and your experience in other ways. In the case of disabling the cookies, some features of the Website may become unavailable.

For more information about cookies, please visit www.allaboutcookies.org